Jesse

Father of Ulysses S. Grant opened a tannery in Georgetown, Ohio.
Ulysses spent his boyhood in Georgetown.

By the time he was 10 neighbors were bringing him their horses to train.

Whenever there was a school open in Georgetown, Jesse, sent Ulysses to school, He enjoyed arithmetic when he was not in school he worked in his father's tannery. Sometimes he hired other children for 10 or 15 cents & then harness his horse, his wagon & got a hauling job that paid a dollar or more
